Uniqueness of Jewish Education

The Jewish Orthodox educational network is the heir of an educational tradition that stretches back into antiquity. It understands its mission to be given in the words of Deuteronomy, “You shall teach them to your children” – that is, teach the wisdom that is found in divine Scripture and in the traditions of its teachers in every age.

The process of education has been and remains central to Judaism. Whereas in most ancient civilizations, education was reserved for the elite, the books of the Prophets hold forth the ideal that all people should be students of G-d, that knowledge of G-d
